

June 1, 2007

FILED UNDER : LEADERSHIP

WBM Office Systems Makes VoIP Transition a Breeze

If your office hasn't made the decision to switch to a VoIP telephone system, you obviously haven't had the chance to speak to Garry Laxdal.

Perhaps it's time you did.

As VP of Telecommunication Products for award-winning WBM Office Systems, Laxdal makes a compelling case in favour of Mitel's Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) technology.

Mitel's remarkable, multi-tasking phone systems can save money for your company, while boosting productivity in a number of different ways. But first, you'll have to alter your perceptions of what a telephone network can and should do for your company.

Read more at:

<http://www.businessedge.ca/archives/article.cfm/wbm-office-systems-makes-voip-transition-a-breeze-15084>